OPTIMUM FRAME FRAGMENTATION METHOD FOR COMMUNICATION OVER ERROR PRONE CHANNELS

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A frame fragmentation method for digital communications over error prone channels is presented. The technique maximizes data throughput based on the bit error rate and frame overhead. The technique can be used to determine optimum fragmentation thresholds for wireless links that are characterized by significant bit error rates.